

2019 year-end member counts – over 95,000

As 2019 comes to a close, we are excited to report another historical high for AIA's membership: over 95,000 members. We would like to thank all components for their continued contributions that were instrumental in the success we continue to have in growing our membership. Please take a moment to ensure your websites and communications accurately reflect our new historical high using the term 'over 95,000 members' across the institute. By ensuring public-facing notices are updated to our current performance we can speak in a single, consistent voice on the number of professionals we represent. We look forward to continued success in 2020. Thank you. Steven Bell Director, Membership Reporting & Billings The American Institute of Architects Washington DC
